

Gandhian Nonviolent Struggle and Untouchability in South India: The 1924-25 Vykom Satyagraha and the Mechanisms of Change

Author: Mary Elizabeth King [1]

Oxford University Press, India, 2014, pp. 312

Revisionary analysis of Gandhi's 608 day campaign to secure right of untouchables to use road by a Brahmin temple, challenging claims in earlier accounts that a solution was reached because the Brahmins were 'converted'. The author criticises both Gandhi's belief that self-imposed suffering can convert the opponent and his leadership of this campaign.

Source URL (modified on 23/08/2016 - 15:57):<https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2014/gandhian-nonviolent-struggle-and-untouchability-south-india-1924-25-vykom>

Links

[1] <https://civilresistance.info/author/138>