

Filter by language

You can filter the displayed publications by language

Year of Publication: 2018

Sadiqi, Fatima ; Ouguir, Aziza, Reflecting on feminism in Africa. A conversation from Morocco [1], Meridians: feminism, race, transnationalism, Vol. 17, no. 2, 2018, pp. 269-278

Interview with Fatima Sadiqi, professor of Linguistics and Gender Studies, on the discourse around feminism, Islam, gender equality, social justice and democracy in Morocco.

Year of Publication: 2016

Ennaji, Moha ; Sadiqi, Fatima ; Vintges, Karen, Moroccan Feminisms: New Perspectives [2], Trenton, NJ, Africa World Press, 2016, pp. 260

The authors explores the various aspects of Moroccan feminism from a historical, sociological and comparative perspective. They discuss women and politics, women's NGOs, female identities, women and Sufism, and their role in the 20 February Movement (20 February 2011 – March/April 2012). They also cover women's role in society in general, from various but inter-related perspectives: secular, Islamic, grassroots, etc.

See also Ennaji, Moha (2020) 'Women's activism in North Africa: a historical and socio-political approach' in Darhour, Hanane and Drude Dahlerup (eds) (2020) Double-Edged Politics on Women's Rights in the MENA Region. Gender and Politics, Cham, Switzerland: Palgrave Macmillan, pp. 157-178.

Analyses women's activism strategies in Tunisia and Morocco directed at transforming gender roles; pursuing better legal rights and women's progress in the public sphere; opposing violence and discrimination against women, and trying to consolidate democracy in the aftermath of the Arab Spring.

Source URL (retrieved on 26/04/2024 - 14:57):<https://civilresistance.info/author/2572>

Links

[1] <https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2018/reflecting-feminism-africa-conversation-morocco> [2]
<https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2016/moroccan-feminisms-new-perspectives>