Street, Tim, The politics of British nuclear disarmament [1], Oxford Research Group, 2015

Argues that the post-election debate on replacing the UK's Trident nuclear weapons system is welcome and necessary, but so far has not dealt with the underlying political meaning of the UK being a nuclear weapon state and what it would mean for it to disarm. This article discusses the politics of Trident in relation to the UK's military character and its imperial history.
