

American Labor and the Indochina War: The Growth of Union Opposition

Re-issued as US Labor and the Vietnam War, 1989.

Author: Philip S. Foner [1]

International Publishers, New York, 1971, pp. 126

Traces the emergence of (belated) trade union opposition from a November 1967 conference in Chicago, attended by 523 trade unionists from 38 states and 63 international unions, which established the trade union division of the peace organization SANE. Includes a chapter on labour-student alliances.

Source URL (modified on 30/11/2016 -

15:58):<https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/1971/american-labor-and-indochina-war-growth-union-opposition>

Links

[1] <https://civilresistance.info/author/1791>