

Women and Social Movements in Latin America: Power from Below

Author: Stephen Lynn [1]

University of Texas Press, Austin TX, 1997, pp. 352

Covers six cases of grassroots activism in Mexico, El Salvador, Brazil and Chile, which use interviews with activists and provide histories of organizations and movements involved. The activists are concerned with economic and health issues, but also stress problems relating to contraception and abortion, rape and domestic violence.
