

Nonviolent Social Movements: A Geographical Perspective

Editor(s): Stephen Zunes [1], Lester R. Kurtz [2], Sarah Beth Asher [3]

Blackwell, Oxford, 1999, pp. 330

Well-documented accounts of nonviolent action around the world, mostly since the 1970s. (Individual chapters are also cited in the appropriate geographical sections of this bibliography.) Also includes a feminist critique of the masculinist bias of many works on nonviolence (by Pam McAllister) and essay by sociologist Kenneth Boulding on power (cited under A.1.a. ii).

Source URL (modified on 18/10/2016 -

14:41):<https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/1999/nonviolent-social-movements-geographical-perspective>

Links

[\[1\] https://civilresistance.info/author/101](https://civilresistance.info/author/101) [\[2\] https://civilresistance.info/author/102](https://civilresistance.info/author/102) [\[3\] https://civilresistance.info/author/103](https://civilresistance.info/author/103)