

A Force More Powerful: A Century of Nonviolent Conflict

Author(s): Peter Ackerman [1], Jack Duvall [2]

Palgrave, New York and Basingstoke, 2000, pp. 554

Analysis of a selection of predominantly nonviolent struggles from Russia 1905 to Serbia 2000, arguing against 'the mythology of violence'. Some of the case studies are standard in books on civil resistance, others – for example the 1990 movement in Mongolia – less familiar. Each chapter has a useful bibliography. The book arose out of a 1999 US documentary television series 'A Force More Powerful', now available on DVD, and therefore includes, in the more recent cases, information from interviews.

Source URL (modified on 23/08/2016 - 15:57): <https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2000/force-more-powerful-century-nonviolent-conflict>

Links

[1] <https://civilresistance.info/author/76>

[2] <https://civilresistance.info/author/77>