Editor(s): Devon W. Carbado [1], Donald Weise [2]

Cleis Press, San Francisco, 2003, pp. 354

Rustin was an influential adviser to MLK and the coordinator of the 1963 March on Washington. These writings on civil rights and gay politics from 1942 to 1986 include his important 1964 essay 'From Protest to Politics' arguing for a policy shift towards mainstream politics through voter registration and involvement with trade unions. Rustin's later attempts to achieve his goals through the Democratic Party made him a contentious figure in some radical circles.
