

Rose, Orange and Tulip: The failed post-Soviet revolutions

Author: Theodor Tudorou [1]

In: Communist and Post-Communist Studies, Vol 40, No 2 (Sept), 2007, pp. 315-342

Argues that civil society (despite its role in the opposition) was too weak in these cases to achieve basic change, and that the democratic revolutions 'proved to be little more than a limited rotation of ruling elites within undemocratic political systems'.
