

The Colour Revolutions in the former Soviet Republics: Successes and Failures

Editor(s): Donnacha O'Beachain [1], Abel Polese [2]

Routledge, London, 2010, pp. 254

See also , Roses and Tulips: Dynamics of regime change in Georgia and Kyrgyzstan [3] Journal of Communist and Transition Studies, 2009, pp. 199-206 . Argues against the thesis that opposition unity is a prerequisite for success in overthrowing presidents, and also rejects claims that Western agents promoted protests to secure western interests.

Source URL (modified on 23/08/2016 - 15:57): <https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2010/colour-revolutions-former-soviet-republics-successes-and-failures>

Links

[1] <https://civilresistance.info/author/499>

[2] <https://civilresistance.info/author/500>

[3] <https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2009/roses-and-tulips-dynamics-regime-change-georgia-and-kyrgyzstan>