

Making Democratic Citizens in Spain: Civil Society and the Popular Origins of the Transition, 1960-1978

Author: Pamela Beth Radcliff [1]

Palgrave Macmillan, Basingstoke, 2011, pp. 440

In the early 1960s, the dictatorship approved the formation of various types of family and neighbours associations, which in fact opened spaces for oppositional networking.

Source URL (modified on 23/08/2016 -

15:57):<https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2011/making-democratic-citizens-spain-civil-society-and-popular-origins-transition-1960>

Links

[1] <https://civilresistance.info/author/872>