

The Arab Spring: The End of Postcolonialism

Author: Hamid Dabashi [1]

Zed Books, London, 2012, pp. 272

An ambitious attempt to explain 2011 in historical context. Starts from the Green Movement in Iran to chart the difference between 'political modernity' and the 'social modernity' which is supplanting it. Chapter 1 explores the 'unfolding' of the Arab Spring and other chapters include discussion of 'A New Language of Revolt' and 'Race, Gender and Class in Transnational Revolutions'.

Source URL (modified on 23/08/2016 - 15:57):<https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2012/arab-spring-end-postcolonialism>

Links

[1] <https://civilresistance.info/author/1098>