

Power struggles: strategies and tactics of the anti-nuclear movement in contemporary Tokyo

Author: Alexander Brown [1]

Vol Doctor of Philosophy, University of Wollongong 2015, pp. 283

Explores the strategy and tactics of the anti-nuclear energy movement in Tokyo developed in the aftermath of the Fukushima disaster in March 2011, points to the existing dissatisfaction with both the nuclear industry, and the decaying institutions of Japan's capitalist developmental state, as the foundations upon which the anti-nuclear energy movement has become the longest social movement in Japan.

Source URL (modified on 05/06/2020 - 16:22):<https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2015/power-struggles-strategies-and-tactics-anti-nuclear-movement-contemporary-tokyo>

Links

[1] <https://civilresistance.info/author/3032>