

Making All Black Lives Matter: Reimagining Freedom In The Twenty-First Century

Author: Barbara Ransby [1]

University of California Press, Oakland, CA, 2018, pp. 148

Historian and activist, Barbara Ransby, explores the birth of the hashtag and social media platform #BlackLivesMatter by three Black activist women following the shooting of unarmed 17 year-old Trayvon Martin in Sanford, Florida, in 2012, and the acquittal of his killer, George Zimmerman. Through a series of interviews with its principal organisers, Ransby's narration contextualizes the origin of the Black Lives Matter movement in prison reform and anti-police violence reform policies, the establishment of Black youth movements, and radical mobilizations across the country dating back for at least a decade.

Source URL (modified on 25/08/2018 - 17:23):<https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2018/making-all-black-lives-matter-reimagining-freedom-twenty-first-century>

Links

[1] <https://civilresistance.info/author/187>