

Students lead Chile's #MeToo moment

In: Guardian Weekly, 2018, pp. 8-8

Describes a new generation of student activists who are waging a struggle against harassment and sexual discrimination in universities through strikes, occupations and protests. When the article was published many university buildings were still being occupied. Polls showed public support and the government promised to meet some (but not all) of the students' demands.

Source URL (modified on 16/12/2019 -

16:20):<https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2018/students-lead-chiles-metoo-moment>