

Our Fight against the Dakota Access pipeline is far from over

Author: Mike Faith [1]

In: The Guardian, 2019

Article representing the Standing Rock Sioux Tribe position by its chairman. Notes that the Obama administration refused in late 2016 to grant DAPL a permit to cross the Missouri River upstream of Standing Rock, but that under Trump the pipeline had been built. Faith also reports that his tribe is still engaging in legal challenges to pipeline permits, and that owners of DAPL are trying to double the pipeline capacity, increasing the risk of oil spills.

Available online at:

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2019/nov/15/dakota-access-pipeline-standing-rock> [2]

Source URL (modified on 20/07/2020 - 18:34): <https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2019/our-fight-against-dakota-access-pipeline-far-over>

Links

[1] <https://civilresistance.info/author/3211>

[2] <https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2019/nov/15/dakota-access-pipeline-standing-rock>