

---

Talking About Black Lives Matter and #MeToo

Author(s): Linda Greene [1], Lolita Buckner Inniss [2], Bridget J. Crawford [3], Mehrsa Baradaran [4], Noa Ben-Asher [5], Bennett Capers [6], Osamudia R. James [7], Keisha Lindsay [8]

In: Wisconsin Journal of Law, Gender & Society, Vol 34, No 2, 2019, pp. 1-69

This article, which explores both differences and similarities between the two movements, begins by comparing both internal and external definitions of success within Black Lives Matter and MeToo. It also considers both movements from the standpoint of 'intersectionality'. The authors then assess how both movements have influenced scholars, teachers, lawyers and community activists, their impacts on law and popular culture and how these external factors influence the movements. Finally they ask what the next steps should be for each movement.

---

Source URL (modified on 14/05/2020 -

16:58):<https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2019/talking-about-black-lives-matter-and-metoo>

Links

[\[1\] https://civilresistance.info/author/2833](https://civilresistance.info/author/2833) [\[2\] https://civilresistance.info/author/2834](https://civilresistance.info/author/2834) [\[3\] https://civilresistance.info/author/2835](https://civilresistance.info/author/2835) [\[4\] https://civilresistance.info/author/2836](https://civilresistance.info/author/2836) [\[5\] https://civilresistance.info/author/2837](https://civilresistance.info/author/2837) [\[6\] https://civilresistance.info/author/2838](https://civilresistance.info/author/2838) [\[7\] https://civilresistance.info/author/2839](https://civilresistance.info/author/2839) [\[8\] https://civilresistance.info/author/2840](https://civilresistance.info/author/2840)