

Grassroots will drive North Africa women's rights push

In: Oxford Analytica, 2020

The year 2019 has seen women's rights movements come to the fore across the Maghreb, a region where previous initiatives have been driven by Western political pressure and from the top down by predominantly authoritarian leaders. This paper explores the unprecedented bottom-up activist movements that have begun advancing the agenda of women's rights across the region.

Source URL (modified on 06/05/2020 -

16:23):<https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2020/grassroots-will-drive-north-africa-womens-rights-push>