

---

Protests in Hong Kong (2019-2020): a Perspective Based on Quality of Life and Well-Being

Author: Daniel Shek [1]

In: Applied Research in Quality of Life, Vol 15, 2020, pp. 619-635

Shek examines how the Extradition Bill 'ignited' pre-existing social and political sources of conflict in Hong Kong to create a political conflagration. This was fanned by 'disinformation and misinformation, anonymity of the protesters, public support for the students, and support given by parties outside Hong Kong'. The author is critical of the extensive 'vandalism', which damaged the transport infrastructure, of assaults on opponents, and especially of the damage to the Legislative Council building on 1 July 2019.

---

Source URL (modified on 31/10/2020 - 18:50):<https://civilresistance.info/biblio-item/2020/protests-hong-kong-2019-2020-perspective-based-quality-life-and-well-being>

Links

[1] <https://civilresistance.info/author/3309>